1. Hermits

Withdrawing to desert places, living in essential simplicity, subsisting on manual labor; for example, the Augustinian Recollects (Discalced hermits); see St. Anthony first famous hermit.

2. Anchorites

Most radical, solitary, with only the essentials of food and cover.

Ambry

The container, often in or on the sanctuary wall and labeled O.S., for the stocks of consecrated oils. Formerly used more generally as a storage area for liturgical items.

The Eighth Commandment

The Virtues Balanced by Truth

1. Honesty (what ought to be expressed)
2. Discretion (what ought to be kept secret)

Credence Table

A side table for articles used at Mass, especially bread and wine

John, Apostle

John is called the rising eagle, since his gaze pierces so far into the mysteries of heaven and since his version of the Gospel begins with a lofty prologue that is a poem of the Word become flesh.

The Great Commandment

1. You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your mind.
2. You shall love your neighbor as yourself.

Altar stone (portable altar)

This stone is in the altar and is technically as the altar itself, usually being only large enough to hold the chalice and paten; it is seated in a receptacle that leaves its top flush with the altar. Its upper surface bears five crosses, for Christ’s wounds, where anointing were made in its consecration; it contains sealed relics of two martyr saints, Formerly required; since Vatican II “commended,” with an emphasis on the importance of verifying authenticity

The Nine Crosses

Ancient architects often used “the nine crosses,” nine being the trinity of trinities, the perfect plural (thrice three, the perfect unity), thus building an added mystique into the church.

1. Altar cross
2. Processional cross
3. Rood cross (on loft)
4. Reliquary cross
5. Consecration cross
6. Pectoral cross
7. Spire cross
8. Marking cross
9. Cross pendant over altar.

Antependium

A banner-like cloth “hung before,” for example, the altar or the pulpit
