Posada

Like its German counterpart Herbergsuchen (Search for an Inn), the Spanish Posada (Inn) is Advent play, dramatically rendering—and reversing—the Holy Family's fruitless efforts to find shelter in Bethlehem. People in of Mexico and Hispanics in communities everywhere give the holy couple a much better reception than the couple received in Bethlehem. Soon after dark on the evening between December 16 and 24, participants make candle-lit and songs-full procession through the streets, bearing the figures of Mary and Joseph to the home selected to host the Holy Family for the night. In glad reparation for the old refusal, the family welcomes the pilgrims, "Come into my humble home, and welcome! May the Lord give shelter to my soul when I leave this world."

The Four Forms of Reverence

(Corresponding to the four forms of dignity)

1. Familial reverence (toward parents or those taking their place)
2. Civil reverence (toward civil authorities)
3. Ecclesiastical reverence (toward those in the service of the Church)
4. Religious reverence (toward any person, place, or thing related to God)
