Holy Week

Holy Week is ordered to the commemoration of Christ's Passion, beginning with his Messianic entrance into Jerusalem. The days of Holy Week, from Monday to Thursday inclusive, have precedence over all other celebrations. It is not fitting, except in the danger of death, that baptism or confirmation be celebrated on these days since they have their natural place in the Easter Vigil.

Bright Week

The eight-day week beginning with Easter and ending the following Sunday is one of the octaves kept by the Church. It is traditional to consider the octave day as belonging to the feast, so that Easter would last eight days, including two Sundays: Easter itself (the high feast) and the following Sunday (the "low" one).

Ascension Thursday

Formerly, the Christ candle was extinguished on Ascension Thursday, representing the physical departure of Christ from the Earth; now, the Christ candle remains lit through Pentecost, for the entire Easter Season. In some areas, this feast is now celebrated on the following Sunday, the Seventh Sunday of Easter.

Easter

The Resurrection of the Jesus from the dead is the sun around which revolves the solar system of Sundays, seasons, and saints' days. The traditional date of Easter in the West is based on the Resurrection of the Jesus, three days after his crucifixion, which occurred on Passover, the fourteenth of the month of Nisan, according to the Jewish calendar. Easter Sunday's services are the Easter Vigil, Easter Sunday's services during the night, and Easter Sunday.
