Solemnity of the Body & Blood of Christ

This feast to honor the Blessed Sacrament came from a movement that began in twelfth-century Belgium. It was Pope Urban IV who first established it and, most notably, commissioned the great Dominican scholar St. Thomas Aquinas to compose liturgical texts for it. Holy Thursday, commemorating the Last Supper, is the Eucharistic feast. In its liturgical setting, however, it could not bear the devotional practices that piety required in its love for the Body of Christ, nor could it adequately allow for the joy that wanted expression, given the sorrowful events of Holy Thursday and Good Friday.

Visit to the Blessed Sacrament

This devotion has taken various forms, depending on the culture, era and personal preference. It acknowledges the presence of Christ in the Eucharist (the Real Presence) outside of Mass (abiding presence). The genuflection (or a deep bow, common in the Eastern Church) is a traditional gesture of respect, as is a bow or tip of the hat while passing a church. Perpetual adoration means that the Blessed Sacrament is exposed and adored around the clock.

Flowers in the Garden of Eden

Flowers must have grown in paradise. Certainly, there have been legends about this. One of them says that there was only one plant salvaged from the Garden of Eden, the lign aloe. Adam took with him one of those Paradise Shoots, from which all lign aloes have descended.

The Rose of Paradise

Before it became a flower of earth, the rose grew thornless in paradise. Only after Adam sinned did it take on thorns to remind humankind of the sin committed and the fall from grace. The fragrance and beauty remain, however as a reminder of the splendor of paradise. The rose continues to be a classic symbol of Mary, the new Eve, the rose without thorns.
