The Church as a House of Prayer

The word Church comes originally from Greek kuriakos (of the Lord). The Catechism of the Catholic teaches (#1180), “These visible churches are not simply gathering places but signify and make visible the Church living in this pace, the dwelling of God with men reconciled and united in Christ”. It goes on to quote paragraph 5 of Vatican II’s “Decree on the Ministry and Life of Priests”:

1. A church is a house of prayer
2. Where the Eucharist is celebrated and reserved
3. Where the faithful assemble, and
4. Where the presence of the Son of God our savior is worshiped.

The Rose of Paradise

Before it became a flower of earth, the rose grew thornless in paradise. Only after Adam sinned did it take on thorns to remind humankind of the sin committed and the fall from grace. The fragrance and beauty remain, however as a reminder of the splendor of paradise. The rose continues to be a classic symbol of Mary, the new Eve, the rose without thorns.
