Reflection:

In these weeks leading up to Christmas, the entire Church awaits with joy the new arrival of the Messiah, the Son of God, our Redeemer, our brother Jesus, made Man like us and born to redeem us. The own and most characteristic virtue of this period is hope.

And, while we await his glorious coming, the Lord reminds us that we must always be awake, "because we do not know what time the owner of the house will arrive, if at dusk, at midnight, at the crowing of the rooster or at dawn" it says in the Gospel.

Three weeks ago, Jesus was telling us the parable of the ten virgins, inviting us to watch. And today he reminds us again of the need to ensure that, when he arrives, he finds us awake and ready to receive him with our pure, noble and generous heart. An 18th century German poet said: "Even if Christ were born a thousand times in Bethlehem, if he is not born in your heart, you would still be a wretch."
